Tips for Avoiding Zoom Bombers

There have been reports of a resurgence of Zoom bombers at virtual meetings recently. We want to make sure all our fellows and newcomers feel safe in their recovery. Here are some tips on combating Zoom bombing from our trusted fellow and new SoCalDA workshop chair Anne Marie:

Here are several reminders on how to keep your zoom rooms safe. Review these with your meeting and get a group conscious on which precautions your meeting wants to put in place.

1. Use the waiting room feature. Make sure all people identify themselves.
2. Only allow host to Screen Share
3. Use mute participants on entry
4. Make sure Removed participants can't rejoin
5. Lock meeting once everyone is there.
6. Set video to off when participants to join - this gives you a few extra seconds to identify uninvited guests.
7. Disable chat for all.

- Newcomers are encouraged to attend. Old timers will give their recovery a great boost.
- Are you under-earning and in debt? Join us to find support, direction and relief using 4 simple DA tools.
- Are you preparing for a Pressure Relief Group meeting? (PRG) Is your current PRG actions list collecting dust? This workshop is definitely for you!
- Register now! Space is limited to the first 500 people.
